It is known that Carr had promised to vote for General Goff for U. S. Senator when his vote would elect. When, however, a state of affairs existed which led Republican leaders to call upon him to fulfill his promise. In facility of the course will be pursued. ever, a state of affairs existed which led Republican leaders to call upon him to fulfill his promise, he flatly refused. It is also claimed by Democrats that Carr had promised unequivocally to vote for Kenna, but on two occasions he has de-clined to redeem his promise. The theory has been put forth that Carr wants ex-Senator Camden as Ken-les successor but this is only a theory.

to account for some of the votes he has cast during the proceedings.

Now comes the theory which is compatible with every feature of his erratic course, the one hypothesis on which his failure to act with either side at critical times can be accounted for. This explanation is not put forth by those who are responsible for its origin as a guess nor as a deduction from President Carr's course, but is declared to be based on reliable information, accidentally obtained from the parties who are personally concerned.

In brief, this revelation is that Carr have assisted in the formulation of his programme, that General Goff will not qualify as Governor on March 4, or that quality as Governor on March 4, or that it he does qualify he will not get to take his seat. This contingency arising, Governor Wilson will under the Constitution retain his office after the fourth. He will, however, only hold the position until the coming term is fairly under way, when he will resign. President Carr will thus become Governor under the Constitutional provision for such an emergency, and no United States Senator having been elected, Carr will appoint ex-Governor Wilson as Senator. Carras Governor will refuse to call t

Washington, D. THE SENATORIAL SITUATION.

Protest Against His Confirmation for a Federal Office-A Review of the Situation

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Feb. 11,—The joint assembly to-day witnessed rather remarkable spectacle, a Republican brought in a report to which Democrats had agreed and signed their names and there was not a Democrat on the committee, from Senator Price down, to stand by the report when it was attacked from the Democratic side. It was the report of the committee to inquire into the incomplete returns from the counties of Wood and Webster. The Wood county defect was easily cured, being merely the omission of a name. The Webster

The Democratic side suddenly took fright and Mr. Price, with the other fright and Mr. Price, with the other Democrats of the committee, took fright with the rest of them. They did not explain just what frightened them, but the cat is now out of the bag. They feared that the same sort of certificate might be of service to General Goff in establishing his prima facie title. The result of the Democratic panic over the county of Webster is that it does not appear how or from whom the committee got the information which information Caldwell was to-day declared duly elected Attorney General. It is not strange that so careful a man as Judge Maxwell protested against the remnant of that protested against the remnant of tha aper going on the record as his report

POOR PROSPECT FOR BUSINESS. turns is over there is a great rush to dis ushed and efforts made to push then rushed and efforts made to push them ahead as though there were any real chance at this session of getting through a tithe of all that is now well advanced. That even a small part of the measures now before the Legislature could be well considered and enacted into laws is too project to the a prochalitto remote to be a probability.

COMPLICATIONS AHEAD, For this reason efforts on this line are not regarded as paying investments, are not regarded as paying investments, except where a bill is on its final passage, or where a member feels his life cast on the hazard of making all the show he can for the pet measure of his district. The question of the constitutionality of all this legislation in advance of the canvassing of the return is another consideration which renders of less moment all that is going on. Good lawyers hold that not an act thus far passed will be good. Other lawyers say it is at least an interesting question, the solution of which may involve the State in endless litigation.

KANNA'S CAMPAIGN.

Sensior Konna is expected back from its passage.

Senator Kenna is expected back from Washington to-morrow. Some of his friends, who don't know when they are friends, who don't know when they are whipped, predict that he will be elected on Wednesday. When asked how they account for this change of condition, which nobody else has discovered, they reply that when he gets back he will be able to bring to terms the kickers who kick and refuse to be comforted. The suggestion of a campaign of finances is too strong not to be caught up by the shrewd sentinels on the other side, some of whom have expressed themselves in very vigorous terms.

WILL REAP THE WHIRLWIND. Republicans were signing to-day a protest against the confirmation of Senator Kenna by the Senate in the event of his nomination to the vacant District of Columbia Judgeship or the Inter-State Commerce Commissionership, They protest because they regard Senator kenna as the inventor and promoter of the contest for the place to which Gener-al Goff was elected. General Goff knew nothing of the movement until it was well under way. The protest was start-ed last night and General Goff arrived this morning from Washington.

Mr. Flournoy moved to strike ou that part of the report recommending that portion to be stricken out which accepted the clerk's certificate as showing the vote and substituting the mere statement that the vote had been cast. Senator Maxwell explained that the trouble with the Wood county returns was merely the omission of the name of George M. Bowers, Republican nominee for Auditor. The Webster county return was different, there being no return for Attorney General, and the committee had thought it prudent to say on what it based its report. Senator Price had written part of that report and agreed to all of it.

Connection with Belle Boyd, the Spy

in regard to Belle Starr, the female des-perado recently killed, show that she was quite another person from Belle Boyd, the spy. Belle Starr's father, John Shirley, removed to Carthage, Mo., from Ohio, twenty years before the war and kept a hotel known as the Carthage House, where Myra Shirley was born. Her carly days were spent at home and nothing occurred to break the family circle until her eldest brother, Allison Shirley, was murdered toward the and of the war by Kansas jayhawkers. The day after the murder Myra was in the saddle in hot pursuit of her brother's murderers. The prevalence of border warfare and the great number of straggling troops then in Southwestern Missouri gave the young dare-devil ample opportunity to show her prowess and win the flattery she liked. Although grief at Allison's death killed Mrs. Shirley, the wayward girl never again went home to stay, but linked her fortunes with the famous band of guerrillas, headed by Quantrell.

After Quantrell's band disbanded Myra fell in with the James and Younger. Shirley, removed to Carthage, Mo., from

THE WOOLFOLK TRAGEDY AGAIN. New Trial Granted the Accused—The Lewer Court Censured. ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 11.—The Supreme ourt to-day granted a new trial to Tom Woolfolk, convicted of the murder of his father, stepmother and six brothers and sisters. The scene of the crime was near Macon, and Woolfolk was branded as Macon, and Woolfolk was branded as the most actable criminal of modern times. The grounds upon which a new trial was granted are alleged errors of the court below in the admission of certain hearsay testimony. Justice Simmons, who delivered the decision, referred to the demonstration in the court at Macon during the trial of the case, when the crowd cried: "Hang him! hang him." The justice also censured the court below for not taking summary means for the punishment of those who raised the cries.

CELEBRATED SUIT SETTLED

roubles Between the West Virginia Cen-BALTIMORE, MD., Feb. 11 .- A noted railroad suit has been settled here. It dated back to the time the West Virginia Railroad Company extended its ine from Piedmont to Cumberland. The company had failed to settle satisfactorily with Samuel Spellman, a tenant on the Cokely farm, in Maryland, ant on the Cokely farm, in Maryland, who claimed damages for the construction of the road over his premises. Pending litigation the railroad company forcibly took possession of the disputed ground and laid a track over night. Then the lower court decided in favor of Spellman, declaring that the West Virginia Road had no right to condemn a right of way in this State. In the mean time Spellman had transferred his interest in the ground to the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Company, of which Charles F. Mayer, now president of the Baltimore & Ohio, was the head. When the court rendered its decision the employes of this company the head. When the court rendered its decision the employes of this company selzed the farm and tore up the track. The West Virginia, under Henry G. Davis, resisted this interference, and for four months this section of the country was the scene of continual fighting. Almost every day blood was shed, and on several occasions pitched battles were fought. The West Virginia was beaten off at every point. Suit was then entered by the West Virginia against the Cumberland & Pennsylvania for $400,000 damages. In the first trial they obtained a verdict for $17,500, but this was set aside by the court and a new trial orderaside by the court and a new trial order-ed. The ablest lawyers in Maryland and West Virginia were employed, and the trial was set for Saturday, but now that a compromise has been effected the trouble is at an end.
